

IDC Target Account

Higher Interest on Excess Funds For Higher Profit Potential

Having excess funds sounds like the ideal situation, right? But if those funds aren't working hard enough, they could be a drag on your profits. The Federal Reserve does provide an option to handle excess deposits, but it may not be the highest paying alternative.

We offer another choice. With the IDC Target Account, you can invest excess funds into IDC's network of well-capitalized, FDIC-insured banks. You may earn a higher rate than the Fed pays, with the full safety of an FDIC-insured money market deposit account.

Getting Started

Just sign and return IDC's simple Master Custody Agreement. We then collect the operational data necessary to execute transactions. Typically banks can make investments within 24 hours after signing the Agreement.

Learn more about the IDC Target Account.

For further information, contact us at 866-724-4432 or sales@idcdeposits.com

Be sure to visit us at www.idcdeposits.com

The IDC Target Account Advantage

- A liquid money market account with next day availability
- Higher rate than the Fed
- Fully FDIC-insured
- Daily settlement
- No subscription or set up fees
- A simple wire transaction to get started

Wells Fargo is custodian for the IDC Target Account and controls all investor funds.

Wells Fargo:

- Makes deposits on behalf of investing banks
- Maintains records of deposit placements
- Collects interest and other income
- Automatically reinvests cash balances
- Remits principal and income as instructed

